

SLAIN ON ROAD
AND STUPEFIED
COMPANION HELDNewark Man Says Victim
Was Stabbed in Quarrel by a Stranger.

(Special to The Evening World.)

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 1.—August Bennett, twenty-four years of age, is locked up in jail here, pending an investigation into the death of his companion, Frederick Bey, nineteen, who was found dead from stab wounds early today. Both men were from Newark.

The police were not satisfied with the explanation given by Bennett and decided to arrest him. Both men had been drinking and the prisoner was scarcely able to walk when arrested. Policeman Cochran was patrolling his beat on the Heights section this morning when he heard peculiar noises at Bloomfield and Claremont avenues, about a block away from where he was. He ran across a lot and found Bennett bending over Bey and calling to him to "Get up, Fred."

Cochran said that Bennett's hands and clothing were covered with blood and that they were lying on the sidewalk in a pool of blood. A doctor was hurriedly summoned, but when he arrived he pronounced Bey dead.

There were several stab wounds on the body, but the police were unable to find any knife, either in the vicinity of the stabbing or in Bennett's possession, but they decided to arrest him pending the investigation.

At the station-house Bennett said that he and Bey had attended a social on the Pompton turnpike, and, missing the car on their return home, started to walk.

They had gone some distance when a stranger in passing jostled them. A quarrel followed during which the stranger pulled a knife and stabbed Bey.

Bennett says he tried to prevent the man from escaping, but because of his condition could do little. He then tried to aid his friend while he called for help, but getting smeared with blood in his efforts. Bennett and Bey had been chums for a long time and were both employed in a Newark jewelry house.

Bright and early on the morning after election "A. H. Burlew, assistant secretary of the Brooklyn Jockey Club and man-about-town, must appear before Justice Keogh, in the Supreme Court, and say why he should not support his wife, Anna, as well as his seven-year-old boy, Harold, Burlew, who has brought a suit for a separation, through Isaac N. Jacobson, alleging that after more than eight years of trouble with him he deserted her last January and has contributed nothing to her support since. She says that he contributed nothing to the support of the boy, either until she had him arrested last March for non-support, and Magistrate Furlong ordered him to pay $5 a week to her mother, with whom little Harold lives.

The Burlews were married in Brooklyn Sept. 25, 1897, and according to the complaint alternated between living and boarding with Mrs. Burlew's mother biennially until Jan. 2 last, when he took the boy and disappeared. She charges that he constantly quarreled with her, struck her in the face with his clenched fist on one occasion when she returned at 11 P. M. from a forbidden Christmas visit to her mother, and again applied his fist to her breast and shoulders as she lay ill in bed, besides maliciously applying opium to her to induce unconsciousness on the morning of the court case.

Magistrate Furlong, on the application for alimony, which Isaac N. Jacobson will present to Justice Keogh on Wednesday, Mrs. Burlew says that last New Year's "A. H. Burlew" gave her $100, which she went shopping next day and the balance was evidently very attractive, for it was "a" clock in the morning when, on my return, my husband was not at home. He was the child, I did not see them for three months. Then I got a note saying that if I would come to Jersey City, I met him. He asked me if I had seen him. I said "no," and he took me across the ferry and to No. 33 South Fourth street, Brooklyn, where he delivered my boy to me, and I took him home to my mother's, where I am living. He told me the little boy was crying for me all the time."

Mrs. Burlew says Albert Burlew is enjoying a salary of $2,000 a year, and she wants a reasonable allowance of alimony.

BEAT THEIR MOTHERS
TO GET BEER MONEY.Magistrate Gives Them Six Months and Is Sorry He Can't Make It for Life.

Two men charged with beating their mothers were today sent to the Workhouse for six months each by Magistrate Cornell in the Yorkville Police Court.

Matthew Kennedy, thirty-two years old, of No. 33 East Twenty-seventh street, would not work and frequently attacked and severely beat his aged mother, she said, who had no money to give him for liquor. James McCalvin, thirty-five years old, was arrested on complaint of his mother, seventy years old, who said he went to her house at No. 33 East Forty-seventh street, last night, knocked her down and kicked her because she refused to give him money. She said he had assaulted her many times before. Magistrate Cornell said he regretted he could not make the punishment life imprisonment in Sing Sing.

Another merchandizing feature inaugurated by Bloomingdales' years ago, and which the public heard of and accepted with satisfaction, is the series of Great Special Sales on Friday of each week—"Bargain Friday"—a feature that now is in full swing, with more or less success, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf.

The continued success of Bargain Friday Sales depends on the honesty of the offerings—on the real existence of real bargains in the store—not alone on the advertising—our Friday Bargain Sales for years and years have been successful—are successful now and will always be. The inference is obvious. One of the fundamental principles of this great business is honesty in advertising—in being on deck with just the goods we tell about, just when we say they'll be here. Put us to the test if you're the least bit sceptical.
